Best Time to go Kailash Charan Sparsh Yatra in 2025

The ideal time to visit Kailash Charan Sparsh and Mansarovar Yatra is between mid-May and September. However, it's important to note that July to August marks the monsoon season in Nepal, which may cause some inconvenience during the Yatra. From November onward, temperatures begin to drop significantly as winter sets in, with temperatures plummeting to around -20°C. During winter, the entire area around Mount Kailash and Mansarovar Lake is blanketed in snow, making it extremely difficult to cross Dolma La Pass and Gauri Kund. Due to the heavy snow and harsh conditions, local lodges and tea shops remain closed, adding to the challenges of the journey during this period.

Kailash Tour Visa and Permit Update 2025

The People's Republic of China has updated its visa and travel permit requirements for Tibet and Mount Kailash for 2025. Pilgrims traveling to the Tibet Autonomous Region need a special travel permit issued by China's Foreign Affairs, which is managed by local travel agents in China/Tibet. After submitting their passports, the entire group is granted an entry permit and sponsorship paper. Foreign travelers, except for Indian nationals, must then submit an 11-page visa application form to the China Visa Center. Once submitted, it takes 2-3 working days for the Chinese Embassy to issue the group's visa and travel permit for Tibet and Mount Kailash. To accommodate this process, travelers are required to arrive at least 1-2 days before their scheduled trip, and they are responsible for any additional expenses during this time.

Trip Highlights

- Sacred Parikrama around Mount Kailash: This spiritual circle trek is one of the main attractions of the Kailash tour. Many believe that completing the Kora/parikrama brings spiritual benefits, get the positive energy including the washing away of past sins.
- The Holy Lake Mansarovar: The serene, high-altitude lake is an important part of the journey, and many pilgrims take a ritual worship nearby lake in its waters. Hindu Brahman/Guru perform the spiritual puja (Rudrabhishek and Hawana)
- Full Moon Experience at Mansarovar Lake: Pilgrims believe that the full moon amplifies the spiritual energy and the feeling of heaven, some believe that night Lord Shiva and Goddess Parvati come together to take holy bath in the lake at mid night time with the face of star.
